The Tata Institute of Social Sciences (TISS) which was established in 1936 is a Deemed University fully funded by the University Grant Commission (UGC), Government of India. The TISS offers several degree programmes in a range of socially relevant inter-disciplinary areas of social sciences. The TISS offers a very challenging but fulfilling academic environment to faculty committed to creating a just society through education, generation of knowledge and field action.

The Centre for Development Practice and Research, Patna which is an Independent Centre of the TISS Mumbai was established in March 2016 for undertaking research, field action programmes and limited teaching. In the last two years, it has made 'migration' a niche area of its academic activities – research, lectures and conferences, short-term course and publications.

The Centre, with the support from the Takshila Educational Society, has set up a field action project in Mian-Ke-Bhatkan Gram Panchayat, Jiradei block of Siwan District in Bihar. The project has the twin components of research and action. As part of research, the project team is doing ethnography in the Panchayat to understand its political context and socio-economic dynamics. While the ethnography is continuing, the project also envisages some interventions in the near future to strengthen, reform and reconfigure local institutions and through them bring about changes in the lives of the people, particularly women, children, old age persons, persons with disabilities, Scheduled Castes and other deprived groups.

The project team is based at the Parivartan Campus of the Takshila Educational Society which is located at Narendrapur Village, Jiradei block, District – Siwan, Bihar.
